The Charity

Greenshoots is a small garden centre, situated in Rotherfield Peppard, near Henley-on-Thames, set in a five-acre plot, on the edge of the beautiful Chiltern countryside. It is part of The Ways & Means Trust, a local charity established in 1968, specifically to offer training and work experience to adults with reoccurring mental ill health or learning disabilities.

At Greenshoots we teach gardening and responsible growing skills and are always looking for ways to enhance their life skills and employment opportunities. To this end, we have recently established a small flock of 40 chickens, who lay approximately 20 free range eggs a day, which are on sale to customers.

Our free range chickens are enjoying their environment whilst giving lots of entertainment and learning opportunities to the disabled adults who attend the Charity each day.

Greenshoots

It costs the Charity about £30 a year to look after each chicken in their comfortable surroundings, well fed and watered, with a vet in attendance, if required.

Would you be able to sponsor a chicken for one year? If so, please complete the form overleaf and return it to:

Or return it personally to Greenshoots.

If this sponsoring is a gift, please give us the recipient's name and we will send them a certificate, together with the chicken's photograph.
